

I designed and built this microservice for keeping track of events taking place over various microservices and lambda functions, via a TypeScript-based helper library (I also built), utilized in my client microservices.

EngineeringEvents Microservice Sequence Diagram (real-time error observability)

